5 SIGNS OF DEHYDRATION

Everyone can suffer from dehydration, even people with oily skin. Is your skin thirsty? Check list:

1. Complexion is pale and dull
2. Skin feels uneven to the touch
3. Skin looks chapped and flaky
4. It is hypersensitive
5. It is affected by premature signs of aging

PRO-HYDRATION FOOD

Drinking waters is not enough. Selecting the right ingredients and avoiding certain foods can help preserve water in the skin and the body.

1. CHOOSE FFODS RICH IN OMEGA 3
   Salmon, oily fish, avocado and nuts.
2. OPT FOR FRUIT AND VEGATABLES RICH IN WATER AND FIBRES.
3. Like grapes, watermelon, blueberries, pink grapefruit, lettuce, cucumber, tomato and spinach.

SAVE WATER:

1. TURN OFF THE TAPS:
   Save 6 litres of water a minute by turning off your tap while you brush your teeth.

2. BOIL WHAT YOU NEED:
   Save water, money and energy by only boiling as much water as you need.

3. SHOWER WITH LESS:
   Every minute you spend in a power shower uses up to 17 litres of water! Switch to an efficient shower head, you'll save water and cut your bills.

4. STEAM YOUR VEGGIES:
   It is actually better for you to steam your food rather than boil it as you will retain more of the natural nutrients. You will also cut water usage by steaming and If you do boil, try using the leftover water rather than pouring it down the drain.

5. SAVE RAINWATER:
   Use water from the skies to water plants, clean cars and equipment and feed local wildlife.

NEW SUBLIME SKIN
HORMON-AGEING

As we know, extreme dryness, thinning, fragility and loss of skin density, are the key visible signs of the skin in menopause. There is also an increase of the degenerating process, with more pronounced wrinkles and saggy skin.

Hormones can deeply speed up the aging and the degeneration of the skin.

Even if a skin has been healthy and youthful looking, the onset of menopause can suddenly and visibly worsen the skin structure.

Skin regeneration and metabolism slows down making skin look dull, thin and depleted with less collagen, elastin and hyaluronic acid.

An impaired vitamin D activity, impacts the body as well as the skin. Vitamin D is essential for managing calcium and phosphorus levels and for bone remineralization and it has also a direct impact on the skin and it's barrier.

INTRODUCING SUBLIME SKIN OIL CREAM AND OIL SERUM

Two new products that specifically tackle all three main concerns of menopause and hormonal ageing on the skin. Both formulas restore the optimal skin functioning of the dermis and epidermis by:

Counteracting the effects of the decreased Vitamin D activity. Promoting tissue regeneration. Boosting collagen, elastin and hyaluronic acid production. Making the skin denser and more elastic.

Both formulations are based on innovative and functional oil textures in order to immediately contrast the extreme dryness felt by women in the menopause and provide comfort to the skin.

Pollutants degrade our hydrolipidic film on the skin, our natural barrier, exposing the skin to external aggressors and also causing inflammation and premature aging. We know that/ skin regimen/ already works to tackle these issues through the use of the incredible products and Urban Longevity Facial™, so how can we counteract the effects of pollution even more so?
